ANNUAL

Jefferson County Sunday-School Association Meeting.

Interesting Addresses Made and Papers Read—New Officers Elected For Ensuing Year.

Sunday school workers from throughout the county were in attendance at the annual convention of the Jefferson County Sunday-School Association at the Bicknell-Baptist church, at Pleasure Ridge Park Saturday. Following interesting addresses, the reading of papers and reports, and discussions on matters pertaining to Sunday school work, the annual election of officers was held, the results as follows:

Prof. E. H. Brownell, president; C. P. Brecher, vice president; Rev. E. L. Wilson, secretary; John M. Lea, treasurer.

Resolutions were adopted thanking the speakers and others for their services, and attention was called to the "graded school and teacher training work" in the resolutions.

E. S. Bowell, the retiring president of the association, presided at the meeting, which was opened with a song, "Jesus, I Come to Thee," and the Rev. C. P. Brecher offered a prayer. The vesicular sext gave a brief report of Sunday-school work in Louisville and Jefferson county for the past year, saying much good had been accomplished, due to the fact that the work had been made better organized than ever before.

The State Secretary, Prof. E. A. Fox, being too ill to attend the meeting, a special prayer was offered for his speedy recovery. William Hagan, acting president, read the report of the Rev. Roger J. Noe, delivered an eloquent address. His subject was "The Opportunity for Service in the Sunday School."

Misses Bettie Ireland and Tillie Festival attended the music festival Thursday.

Miss Kate Roche is with Miss Ida Beeler this week.

Mrs. Alonso Jenkins entertained Misses Belle Brown and Virginia Bell.

Mrs. James Cochran, Jr., and Miss Meline Pohlan visited Mrs. W. H. Beeler Monday.

Mesdames Ida Kirk, Mary Brown and Lula Thornberry, Misses Bell Brown, Virginia Bell, Mary and Inez Kirk were guests Thursday of Miss Georgia Summers, near Brook's Station.

Miss Julia Gilmore, of South Louisville, has returned home, after spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. R. B. Williams.

Mrs. Mattie and Margaret Ireland visited their sister, Mrs. M. M. Thorne, Saturday.

The following were entertained at dinner by Mrs. E. H. Brownell and Sunday-school leaders: Mrs. E. L. Wilson, Mrs. Frank Wilholt, Mrs. Frank Gandy, Mrs. John Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Brownell, of the First Baptist church, were entertained at dinner by Mrs. E. L. Wilson, Mrs. Frank Wilholt, Mrs. Frank Gandy, Mrs. John Smith.

The place of Prof. Fox was taken by J. Shreve, Durham, international by J. Shreve, Durham, international.

OF ELEGANT

COUNTRY RESIDENCE AND BUILDING SITES

MONDAY, MAY 24, 1909

AT 3 O'CLOCK P. M.

MR. E. R. SPROWL has instructed us to sell his beautiful home, "Edenland," at auction to the highest and best bidder on above date. It is located on the Jeffersontown Interurban car line, 61 miles from the city limits and one mile from Jeffersontown.

It consists of an up-to-date dwelling of 11 rooms and large attic, has reception hall, parlor, dining room, kitchen, sun parlor, sun porch, sun room, sun porch, sun room, sun porch, sun porch, on first floor, and 5 bedrooms and 4 large closets on second floor, with stairway to attic. Lighted with acetylene gas, floors and walls double finished with white pine and oak. Stairs and all rooms have every room. Central heat, 6500 feet, also nice back porch, SPLENDID WATER AT KITCHEN DOOR (well and cistern). ALL NECESSARY OUT BUILDINGS.

We do not fear contradiction when we state this is the most complete and convenient home in Jefferson County.

THREE ACRES OF LAND. Large front and back yards, about 30 fruit trees, such as apples, peaches, plums, cherries and quinces; also grapes, currants, gooseberries, strawberries, raspberries, blackberries, etc. A fine garden.

Building Sites. Large acreage, 100 feet from line, 1 mile from Jeffersontown, plenty of water and large forest trees.

LOT 1525139 feet, about 300 feet from car line. A splendid location for a cosy home. Lot 2825281 feet, with large forest trees, located two blocks from car line. Lot 2825282 feet, with large forest trees.

Tract of land, 11.14 acres, two blocks from car line. Now under cultivation. Would make a nice little truck or chicken farm.

THESE ARE THE ONLY SITES TO BE APPRECIATED. No matter what it happens, it will sell for a nice profit in a very short time, as it is located in a section where property is advanced rapidly.

The Jeffersontown car line traverses the most fertile and beautiful part of Jefferson county and enters the city in its most attractive part. CONSEQUENTLY, IF YOU CAN NOT AFFORD TO LET THIS HOME, BUY A BUILDING SITE. IT WILL likely be a long time before you will have such a one presented to you again, as Mr. Sproawl has ordered us to SELL, and WE INTEND TO FOLLOW HIS INSTRUCTIONS.

Don't Forget the Date—Monday Afternoon, May 24, 1909,

AT 3 O'CLOCK.

Takes Jeffersontown car line at Jefferson Station at 3:00 o'clock and get off at "Livingston Heights."

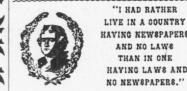

TERMS—On dwelling, a cash balance in 1% and 6% per cent, with interest at per cent and interest to be insured. On lots, cash balance in 1% and 6% per cent, with interest at 6% per cent and interest to be insured. A deposit of 10% per cent required on day of sale.

MUCH is being said of women suffrage. When the women get so degraded that they really want to place themselves on an equal basis with men and politicians (especially banking), and will neglect their homes and children, why we say let them vote. But, if they desire to preserve the beauty of home and control their husbands by love, we say "Stay in a woman's place."

EX-GOV. J. C. W. Beckham and Mr. J. L. Newman have purchased the Frankfort Journal from Mr. W. P. Walton, and will continue that as Democratic in politics. Mr. Walton looks along with the best papers in the country, and is a good man, but in the harness again. Ex-Gov. Beckham will be the new editor of the Journal, and if he continues to expose the same principles and reform that he has advocated the past two years, the success of the paper is assured. He has a large following and has done a great deal for Louisville and Kentucky, and have many warm friends in this country. The higher class citizens of Louisville would like to see Beckham in the leading position to render his services to bring about needed reforms in politics, as well as in our social life.

"The Mystery of the Manor," the second volume of "The Mystery of Jefferson," written by the author of the "Current Events Club," is attracting a great deal of interest to readers all over the country. Everybody is wondering what the mystery connected with the old Manor is, and who will get married. Some of the ladies say they "just can't wait," and want us to publish more of the story each week so it will end sooner. This we should like to do, but our space is taken up with the happenings of the week, which have a great interest. We would like to see Beckham in a position to render his services to bring about needed reforms in politics, as well as in our social life.

"The Mystery of the Manor," the second volume of "The Mystery of Jefferson," written by the author of the "Current Events Club," is attracting a great deal of interest to readers all over the country. Everybody is wondering what the mystery connected with the old Manor is, and who will get married. Some of the ladies say they "just can't wait," and want us to publish more of the story each week so it will end sooner. This we should like to do, but our space is taken up with the happenings of the week, which have a great interest. We would like to see Beckham in a position to render his services to bring about needed reforms in politics, as well as in our social life.

Miss Stella Webb was a recent guest of Miss Beatrice Morris.

Mrs. T. J. House, of Terrell, Oklahoma, is visiting her sister, Mrs. J. G. Morris.

Miss May Parrot will spend Friday and Saturday in Shively.

Mr. James Cochran spent Sunday with his sister, Mrs. J. E. Justice.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Hagan spent last Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. James Cochran.

Mr. J. E. Justice, a prominent farmer of this place, was taken to Norton Memorial Infirmary by Dr. W. M. Watkins Sunday, where he underwent an operation for an abscess of the intestines. The operation was successful, and hopes are entertained for his recovery.

Pretty Women Criminals.

It is difficult to obtain a verdict of guilty against any woman charged with a crime. She is always considered to be young and of attractive personality. Prosecutors of women criminals should be sure to have them tried by female juries. No jury of women could possibly be more lenient than a jury of men. It is, even, not impossible that women hearing a case against a woman would be less severe than a jury of men than are the masculine juries that almost invariably fall victims to a pretty face and a woman's tears.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Another Remarkable Cure of Serious Kidney Trouble.

C. L. Wood, a prominent merchant of Detroit, N. Y., who was suffering some months ago with frequent attacks of hard pain in his kidneys and bladder, and the kidney secretions were irregularly passed. Medical treatment failed to cure him. "At last," says Mr. Wood, "I began using Dr. Kidney Pills, and before long was well again. Through four days of intense pain, finally passing a stone, one-half by five-sixteenths of an inch, I almost didn't have a single kidney trouble since."

Prudent Taft at Church.

Mr. Taft's arrival in church is an interesting ceremony to witness. At his entrance, the organ begins to play and remains standing until he is seated, and when the services are finished it again stands until the organist has changed the music of those present being a willing and agreeable tribute to his office.

Prudent, by the way, will have at least one member of his cabinet with him at All Souls'—Attorney General, probably. Mrs. Prudent, who was a resident of Washington, was one of the leading factors of the church and a teacher of Sunday schools. There are a number of other notable people among the congregation over which Dr. Pierce presides. The Rev. Dr. Timothy H. Verney, from the time he came here in the late '50's until his death, was a popular teacher of the school, and death his son, James S. Merrill, and his aunt, Miss Swan, occupy the new that was his final resting place. Dr. Timothy H. Verney, who was the postmaster general in President Grant's cabinet, was always a popular teacher of the school, and his place has been taken by his daughter, Mrs. Enoch Yost, and her children. A Lesson in Thrift.

Some time ago a business man named Jan Hirsch, a tramp to Bude, perhaps, and availed himself of the opportunity to buy 100 visiting cards which would astonish his native town. He had to travel home he found, to his dismay, that the cards bore the name of Vanish. He had to buy 100 more, and less than 10 of the fakers who obtained averages in the O. & P. last season will be on the cards this year. The last named may not be surprised to see him hovering over the card tables in the bars of McKesson and New Castle are the two towns benefited by holding these eight meetings. The card game at St. Paul and St. Pauline will not be benefited, and each club will have an entirely new string of pitchers this year. —Albion, N. Y.

Pitcher Carroll this season who with Pitcher Price, makes a brace of flingers fit for any club to possess.

FOOD FACTS

What an M. D. Learned.

A prominent Georgia physician went through a food experience which he makes public.

"I was so fat and overgrown that I had to give up my work entirely and went to the mountains of this state, but two months there did not improve me; in fact, I was not quite as well when I left home as when I came. I did not sustain me and it became plain that I must change. Then I began to use Grapes-Nuts food and I also found, from having prescribed it to convalescents and others, that it was a great aid. It is a wonderful restorer and restorer of nerve and brain tissue, as well as muscle. It improves the digestion and side patients always gain as well as those in health and well as very ill."

"As a physician who seeks to help all sufferers, I consider it a duty to make these facts public."

Food on Grapes-Nuts, when the regular food does not seem to sustain the body, will work miracles.

Look in for the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

BATTERY MEN IN OHIO-PENN LEAGUE GOOD

Steubenville Seems to Have the Best Backstops in the Organization.

From the present standing of the various teams in the Ohio & Pennsylvania League, Steubenville appears to have a little the best in the way of backstops. The men who will work for the Steubenville club in this capacity this season are both the greatest catchers.

The Pittsburgh team, for the first time in this century, occupies the place of the best backstop, having undoubtedly the collar position with no body to challenge their right to the lodgment. It is rather difficult to see the team which for 10 years has been a formidable contender for the championship, at the end of the season, not to stay there. The last time the Pirates grazed the tall-end was in 1899, when for one day they had fallen into the second place.

Saturday was a unique day in the National league from the fact that the four teams playing them ended in shutouts. The losing teams in the four games together scored just one run, the St. Louis Cardinals getting the two runs.

The Greatest Catcher.

People do not generally understand why it is that no nation wants Castro on its soil and why the whole civilized world holds in abhorrence the greatest criminal of the age.

It is the secret of all his infamies and the secret of the success of every enterprise that ever started up in Venezuela, whether it was native or foreign, a poor man, and the power that gave him the two million dollars.

This graft was really the beginning of his other nations. It was the first to have relations with this country; also with Holland, Germany and France. His extraction was the greatest.

His selfishness destroyed him.

What he has lost is more than he stole.

Entered as second-class matter June 13, 1902, at the postoffice at Jeffersontown, Kentucky, under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Woman poses and man proposes, muses the Philadelphia Record.

Each centenary "dodt" dream upon another's head" this year, sighs the Boston Transcript.

The gas that is burned over being exchanged costs more, reckons the New York Press, than the wedding presents are worth.

The man who knows enough to make a fortune, contends the New York Press, knows enough not to take anybody's advice on how to dole-it.

The New York Press: It must have kept Solomon pretty busy explaining to every one of them that anyhow he loved her better than all the others.

Says the Charleston News and Courier: Fashion decrees that the "rat" is no longer to be worn. In this neighborhood many ladies have never worn "rats" in the hair, but have used life preservers instead.

The legislature of Texas has extended a most cordial invitation to President Taft to visit the state, if, during the process of enlarging the White House, the president's quarters should be at all cramped, suggests the Louisville Courier-Journal, he will find plenty of room in Texas.

There is nothing new in the decree issued by the pastor of an American church against the bigamy, says a newspaper in Victoria. Toward the end of the 19th century, great broad-brimmed hats were fashionable in Australia. They were of such huge dimensions that a face under one of them could not be recognized.

According to the San Francisco Call the older divorce capitals have a formidable rival on the Pacific Slope. "Los Angeles," says that journal, "has become a close competitor with Chicago, St. Louis and Philadelphia for the divorce market and has New York and San Francisco beaten to a standstill. In January Los Angeles had 115 petitions for divorce, while San Francisco had 92, and in the past ten years the Los Angeles courts have granted 5,582 divorces."

This is the remarkable story the Keene Journal gets from Merrill in the state of Maine. "Miss Adelene Merriam, the little tyro who eloped with a man in a boat, is still living down hill a few rods above the dam near her father's mill, the other day, when her sister was thrown from the sled over the bank into the river. The older sister made an outcry, and the father who was at work in the mill, as well as others, hastened to the rescue. He jumped into the river and shortly saw her floating under the water and caught her as she neared the shore. The little girl had floated 120 feet under water, 40 feet of the distance under ice which reached from shore to shore. She says that while she was traveling under ice and water she saw a snake and a frog."

A more or less novel reason for state prohibition is advanced by the Memphis Commercial Appeal. "If prohibition," it says, "by closing every city business house, could drive most of the men thus thrown out of work back to the farms, would not accomplish our purpose?" Then this old principle kicks back to the old days when it was a hedge of honor, almost of aristocracy, to live in the mansions of the big plantations, and give one's best energies to agriculture.

Farming was the occupation of a gentleman, and the man who planned the spring plowing or the autumn gathering could quote Latin and write polite verse. Life on the plantations was typically southern life, with its abundance, its lavish hospitality, its black and white threads running side by side, but never bleeding in the social warp. The heroes and heroines of the old days were, from the wide-sailed horses out on the farms, which dwelt in a large measure, the country's real aristocracy. Today these beautiful old homes are falling to decay and the family names that were as landmarks are never, in many instances, heard in the old haunts.

HOW HE KNOWS.

Earlie: "I'm in sister's except in 'em."

Mr. De Lestavayer: "How do you know she is?"

Earlie: "She's been sleepin' all the afternoon."—Brooklyn Eagle.

THE DREAM.

Began at once to make real, real To see them to know what love would have them be. He lay perfect, but of perfect trust With courage to obey the deathless dream
That was what fancy is earth's common
The ancient hope lives in the heart of him Who always loves, though through the passing And when he longs to right, or turn in Upon himself, when sorrow makes man And visionary.

It is yet to be!

Whatever path the dream of far-off joy,
Or poet chanted in his brie heart,
Shall glow a moment as it fade before
The sun of life, the sun of love, the sun of man.

Let each soul trust and hold, but you must Bear the burden of the future; let the man Crown walk

With man companion, like as guide, Along the valley where the vision leads.

To-morrow we are gone, if life were well,
To other higher efforts. Do we wait, or live?

Or live still shall blaze away in younger eyes,
And when the sun of life, the sun of love, the sun of man

Is flying, shall defeat, the lords of life

Singing to us, their march to fame?

For we must fight without

—William Mountain, in the Philadelphia Liberator.

In the thick smoke Nash did not at first notice the fact of his chief.
Then he saw the figure, and he knew him. Instantly he understood. He stepped and pulled Maclean away from the hot fire-door. The train was now moving, but very slowly, and was being held up on the engine's vacant "seat," the firemen found the levers and waited. There was nothing that could be done to stop the train, but it would be at least, before the locomotive would emerge into the open. Could he last so long?

Ough! Ough! The thunderous puff echoed through the tunnel.
Little by little the train crept back, through the splintered window.
He was unfastened, but still grasped the iron. To his swimming head the seconds seemed minutes.
Every puff of the laboring engine added to the soty clouds that rolled in through the open windows, warm, thick, and heavy.

The fireman's head was splitting.
In the ears sounded a roaring not altogether of the train. The pitchy blow of the engine, the sharp yellow light.

Even the hard steel lever-handles lost form and substance, grew soft, and seemed to slip away.

The water now barely covered the train, but he was too far gone to notice this. A deep rumbling monotone possessed his brain. Through the yellow light he saw his eyes begin to grow. They were approaching the extreme.

No endurance was now more needed than his. He fought off approaching insensibility, but he was failing.

Suddenly a blinding glare enveloped him. A draft of air, hot and faint, drew him into the tunnel. They were outside the tunnel, and that he must stop the train. With a final effort he shut the throttle and pushed
the lever to the right. Then uncomfortable came. His hands were wet, and he felt insensible on the body of the engineer.—Scotsman American.

The engineer had taken a dialgue to Nash on sight that morning in the engine-shed. With all his restoratives he had almost forgotten where he was, when he was again driven.

had almost forgotten where he was, when he was again
driven.

Suddenly a blinding glare enveloped him. A draft of air, hot and faint, drew him into the tunnel. They
must stop the train. With a final
effort he shut the throttle and pushed
the lever to the right. Then uncomfortable came. His hands were wet, and
he felt insensible on the body of the engineer.—Scotsman American.
